Crush the can

A simple way to reduce childhood obesity

Did you know there is one simple thing you can do to reduce the risk of childhood obesity by more than half? Cut out sugary drinks. Each can of soda a child drinks per day raises the risk of obesity by 60 percent. Fruit drinks, lemonade, sports drinks and energy drinks are just as bad. Sugary drinks are the main source of added sugar in children's diets.

Drinks high in sugar and calories cause more weight gain than similar foods do. That is because kids feel full from eating faster than they feel full from drinking. Kids who have a lot of sugary drinks also:

- drink less milk.
- get more cavities.
- have a higher risk for diabetes.

Your privacy

How we protect your information

We take your privacy seriously. We are very careful with your protected health information (PHI). We also guard your financial information (FI). We use PHI and FI to run our business. It helps us provide products, services and information to you.

We protect oral, written and electronic PHI and FI throughout our business. We have rules that tell us how we can keep your PHI and FI safe. We don't want your PHI or FI to get lost or destroyed. We want to make sure no one misuses it. We check to make sure we use your PHI and FI carefully. We have policies that explain:

- how we may use PHI and FI.
- when we may share PHI and FI with others.
- what rights you have to your PHI and FI.

It's no secret. You may read our privacy policy in your Member Handbook. It's online at UHCKids.com. You may also call Member Services at the number on the back of your child's ID card to ask us to mail you a copy. If we make changes to the policy, we will mail you a notice.

Ask Dr. Health E. Hound

Q. How can I tell if my child is a healthy weight?

A. Ask the doctor to check your child's body mass index (BMI) every year. BMI is calculated using your child's height and weight. The doctor can also tell you your child's BMI-for-age percentile. This number shows how your child compares to other children of his or her age and sex. These numbers tell you if your child's weight is healthy.

Looking at BMI each year tells you if your child is at risk for obesity. Because your child is growing quickly, a single reading doesn't give a complete picture. A good BMI over time can lead to long-term health and a healthy weight as an adult.

Find Dr. Right. Need to find a new doctor for your child? Use our provider directory at UHCKids.com. Or, call Member Services at the number on the back of your child's ID card.

Know your options

How you can avoid the emergency room

When your child is sick or hurt, you might not want to wait to get medical care. Choosing the right place to go can help your child be seen faster.

WHEN CAN THE PRIMARY CARE PROVIDER (PCP) TREAT YOUR CHILD?

For most illnesses and injuries, your child's PCP's office should be the first place you call. You might get an appointment for later that day. You may be given advice for caring for your child. Your doctor could call in a prescription to the drugstore. You can even call at night or on weekends.

WHEN SHOULD YOU TAKE YOUR CHILD TO URGENT CARE?

If you cannot get in to see your doctor, you could go to an urgent care center. Urgent care centers take walk-in patients. They treat many kinds of illnesses and injuries. They can perform some kinds of diagnostic tests. Many urgent care centers are open at night and on weekends.

WHEN SHOULD YOU TAKE YOUR CHILD TO THE EMERGENCY ROOM?

Emergency rooms are for major medical emergencies only. Go there only when you think your child's illness or injury could result in death or disability if not treated right away. If you go for a minor problem, you may have to wait a long time.

One in five children has visited a hospital emergency room in the past 12 months.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

You may get a survey from us in the mail. It asks how happy you are with UnitedHealthcare Community Plan. If you get a survey, please fill it out and mail it back. Your answers will be private. We want to know what you think of the service we provide. Your opinion helps us make your health plan better.

A is for Asthma™

Tips for understanding your child's asthma

UnitedHealthcare and Sesame Workshop, the nonprofit organization behind Sesame Street, have teamed up to create A is for Asthma. This program helps families manage their children's asthma.

You and your child are not alone in managing his or her asthma. Your asthma team is there to help! Check out these simple tips to stay connected with your doctor.

- Take your child for regular checkups.
- Write down any questions you and your child have and bring them along to each doctor visit.
- Talk with your doctor to make sure you understand any medications your child needs. Your doctor might want him or her to use controller medications every day to control symptoms.
- Your child might also need rescue medications to help quickly if he or she has an attack. Make sure your child carries them when leaving the house.
- Let your doctor know right away if your child's condition changes.

WHAT IS MEMBER VALIDATION?

When you call Member Services, you will be asked some questions to make the person calling is really you. You can answer the questions verbally. Or you can answer them using your phone's keypad. This is called member validation. It makes sure your personal information stays private. It also helps you get faster service. Once you answer the questions, you can use the self-serve Member Service options or you can speak with someone. The person will know who you are when they answer the phone, so they can help you right away.
